Hopes of Rain Prove Futile

Fire-fighters' hopes for rain were dashed by the weatherman yesterday as flames continued taking bites out of the province's forest wealth and beauty.

Little or no rain was forecast for the south coast—just a few teasing clouds. A few showers were called for along the northern coast of the province, but the interior is expected to remain dry.

MORE TROUBLE

The weather news meant more trouble for 100 men trying to prevent a 6,000-acre blaze from ravaging the shore of Buttle Lake on Vancouver Island.

The fire overnight yesterday jumped Myra Creek, but a crew of loggers and foresters had kept it from consuming the timber around Myra Falls on the shore of the lake.

"We will fight this fire by cutting firebreaks and backfiring wherever the country lends itself for us to make a stand," a forester said yesterday. "Machines cannot work the steep hillsides that rise to 5,000 feet around the lake, and effectiveness of pumps are limited. A pall of smoke hangs over the whole Buttle Lake area, blotting out the sun and reducing visibility.

It is estimated the fire has destroyed timber worth $3,000,000 since its start. It threatens the whole of the Buttle Lake area where the B.C. Power Commission cleared the shore prior to raising the lake by 19 feet with the Upper Campbell Dam.

FOUR NEW FIRES

In the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, there were four new fires reported yesterday, making a total of 84 being fought by 1,000 men assisted by seven water-carrying aircraft and a specially equipped Sikorsky helicopter.

The helicopter took six men from the area of a fire they had extinguished at White River near Campbell River yesterday, and flew 10 men in to reinforce an 18-man crew at a fire at Adams River near Alert Bay.

BOMBED WITH WATER

At Pemberton, a 900-acre blaze broke over a guard Friday night and Beaver aircraft were bombing it with water to try and bring it back under control.

The fire patrol at the Gold River blaze, one which has been burning off and on for two months, was reduced to 25 men. It has covered some 850 acres.

STILL PATROLLED

Another fire at Donner Lake in Strathcona Park was put out yesterday, but still patrolled by 10 men.

Other bad fires in the province include a 2,000-acre blaze at Lillooet, considered under control but still keeping 200 men busy.

SERIOUS TROUBLE

Four fires in the Harrison Lake area, ranging from 200 acres to more than 4,000 acres, continued to cause serious trouble. Forest officials were toasting everything at them, men, airplanes and equipment, in order to bring them under control.

At Yakh River near Creston, firefighters hoped to get a guard around a 1,500-acre blaze last night or today. The fire was burning in insect-killed timber and slash, creating a roaring inferno.

TEMPORARY RANGERS

Because of the large number of fires raging throughout the province, temporary forest rangers have been appointed in some areas.

These include J. J. Martinich, forest patrol for Galiano, Mayne, the Penders, Saturna, Prevost and small islands through Portler Pass and south to Princess Margaret Island.

Campers, picnickers, hikers and parties from pleasure craft are forbidden to land on the islands except at regulation wharves.

U.S. to Capture Talks Initiative

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower will take over the offensive at any summit meeting on the Middle East and confront Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev with wide-ranging proposals for stabilizing that crisis-ridden area.

This unqualified assurance came yesterday from a high-ranking official.

The official said that Eisenhower may put forward some proposals as dramatic as his famous "open skies" disarmament plan which was presented to Russia at the June 1955 summit conference at Geneva. The proposals, it was indicated, might take the Kremlin by surprise.

PLAN RUSHED

The President, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other top administration officials are trying to put the finishing touches on the American plan in time for an Aug. 12 summit meeting, if one is held.

The United States today is awaiting Khrushchev's answer to the President's suggestion that the meeting begin "on or about Aug. 12" and be held within the framework of the United Nations. Eisenhower advised the Soviet premier that he was willing to meet in any city except Moscow. Geneva was regarded as a likely site.

In making his recommendations on the Middle East, the president would go beyond the suggestions for a UN police force and curbs on inflammatory radio propaganda which Dulles mentioned at a news conference this week.

The United States also wants strong anti-subversion safeguards for the small nations of the oil-rich Middle East.

Published reports that the United States has a "bankrupt" Middle East policy and would not make definite recommendations if summit talks are held was denied. The government first wants to help bring an end to clashes between Mideast rebel nationalists and existing governments and to achieve political stability there.

ANTI-POVERTY PLANS

After the political situation has cooled off, the United States would then present plans to combat poverty and raise living standards in the Middle East.

More than one summit meeting may be necessary to ward off all threats to peace in the area, it is believed.

Two senators—George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) and John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.)—said yesterday it is important the United States seize the summit offensive with a positive program on the Middle East.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI)—The United States formally recognized Iraq's revolutionary regime yesterday and sent presidential envoy Robert Murphy here on a flying mission to meet the new Baghdad leaders.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rebel leader Saeb Salam met Saturday with President-elect Fawzi al-Qasbi and declared himself highly satisfied after an hour and a half talk.

CAIRO (AP)—The Middle East News Agency claimed discovery of a "big imperialist plot" in Khartoum that aimed to use the Sudan to fight President Nasser's Arab nationalism.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—The Iraqi government Saturday released two U.S. Marines who had been held since they were arrested near a big oil tank fire Wednesday afternoon.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Delegates to the UN Security Council were reported hopeful Saturday of working out an informal agreement Tuesday for a top-level meeting on the Middle East in about two weeks.

Convict Captured After Wild Chase

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP)—An escapee from the Idaho State Prison farm was captured near here Saturday afternoon after a 45-minute chase through two towns and ranchland roads.

The prisoner, James Finas Aiken, 30, finally surrendered when confronted by a state policeman with a gun in Athens, 17 miles northeast of here.

Before that, police said, he abandoned a stolen car, forced a Portland woman to give him her clothes, took her car and led lawmen in a hectic chase.

Aiken escaped about 10 a.m. Saturday. He was first discovered at 11:45 a.m. east of Pendleton in a stolen car with a stolen shotgun.

The escapee eluded pursuing police by taking a side road, turned down a gravel street in Athens, spun his car around and headed back toward the police car, but his car stalled. He surrendered with his hands in the air when Hewitt threatened to shoot.

First Successful Test

Mighty Atlas Thunders into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The fully-powered Atlas inter-continental ballistic missile thundered aloft Saturday on its first successful test journey through space.

The 100-ton, three-engine rocket was the mightiest war weapon ever launched by the free world.

July 19 when the first three-engine Atlas blew up in the sky.

The Atlas blasted aloft at 5:16 p.m. EST, propelled by twin booster rockets and a main sustainer engine burning at full throttle.

A blast of orange flames and an ear-splitting roar heralded the missile's takeoff.

The missile climbed straight up, accelerating rapidly for some 50 seconds, then it pitched over to a more level course and darted toward the southeast on the start of a 15,000-mile-per-hour flight through space.

The Air Force announced five minutes later that preliminary instrumentation reports indicated the flight was normal.

"This is the first successful flight test using both the boosters and the sustainer engines," the statement said. All indications were that the critical test ran smoothly. "We were in the money all the way," one official close to the project said.

The propulsion system, which pours out more than 350,000 pounds of thrust, gives the Big A enough push to travel intercontinental range 6,325 miles.

In the first eight tests that preceded the last violent blow-up only the boosters were used on 600-mile limited-range shots.

A silver-tipped tactical nose cone gleamed in the sun as the missile soared skyward. The cone was designed to separate in space and streak in on target while the main missile body burns up in the intense friction encountered on re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

The 85-foot Atlas reportedly was fired at a distance of about 2,500 miles on this trip to test engine components.

Bennett Hints $28 Bonus May Go Up

KELOWNA (CP)—Premier Bennett hinted last night that the Social Credit government will be promising "much more" than its current $28 payments on property taxes at the time of the next provincial election.

"We are the only government in the free world that is paying the first $28 on property taxes," he told a government anniversary celebration crowd here.

"When we go to the people for the next election, it won't be $28 we will be promising, but much more than that."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ARE we supposed to be at peace with the Russians and Chinese? If so, why do we treat them as enemies in our press?

The Communists are alien to us in their aims. No doubt they would like to overwhelm us. But neither the West nor the East is shooting or dropping bombs. Our ambassadors continue to exchange polite words.

Then why do we portray Russians and Chinese as black villains, and talk as though we were at war?

A popular American comic strip recently featured the adventures of a pilot who actually landed in Russia to carry away a high Communist official to the West.

In other days it was considered bad manners to name a real country as an enemy, even in fiction. Now Russia and China are freely named as hostile powers, all the way from the editorial pages to the comic strips.

Many citizens of the United States, in particular, are acting and talking as if another war were only a question of time.

Does this mean that we are really flexing our muscles for a war? No, we are told. A war might destroy mankind. Yet we keep making warlike noises.

Martin S. Dworkin in a recent number of "Canadian Commentator" reviewed the movie "Prisoner of War," in which the Chinese enemy in Korea was depicted as a melodramatic villain, brutal and wicked, scarcely human.

Enemy doctrines and methods were caricatured so that they were not believable.

The Korean war is over now, but the hate campaign continues. And the childish distortion of Communist ways continues, too.

Even if we must clash with the Reds in a tragedy of blood and fire—an outcome which is by no means certain—what do we gain by looking on them as comic-strip heavies?

Wouldn't we be wiser to make an earnest effort to find out what kind of people they really are?

Seaway Opener Queen's Yacht?

Express columnist William Hickey said the Britannia will carry the royal couple, and probably the young Prince of Wales and Princess Anne, up the seaway and through the Great Lakes to Chicago. He said the yacht would cross the Atlantic to Canada in time for the opening of the seaway next April 1.

Peering through the sight on the six-inch reflecting telescope he made, is "boy astronomer" Winston Jackson, 1531 Hillside, Colin Wyatt, 2414 Dryfe, who assisted him in making the delicate instrument, looks through the eyepiece. — (Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Schoolboy Glues His Eye on Sky

By DAVID FRANCIS

At school 15-year-old Winston Jackson is called the "boy astronomer" by his classmates.

"They all think I am wacky staying up at nights watching," said Winston yesterday. "I get teased about it. But I don't mind. It is worth it."

"It is absolutely like looking into another world."

"Half the time here it is dark and half the time it is light," he continued. "We might as well learn about the dark too."

Winston, who lives at 1531 Hillside, is such an enthusiastic astronomer that he has built himself two telescopes, with the advice and assistance of a friend, Colin Wyatt, 2414 Dryfe. The first was a 4 1/2 inch telescope and the second a six-inch reflecting telescope, each taking about six months spare time to complete.

The mirror for the six-inch telescope was polished to within five-millionths of an inch true to a paraboloid, said Mr. Wyatt.

This required nearly 25 hours of grinding and polishing with carborundum, fine abrasive, and optical rouge before the mirror was ready to be sent away to be aluminized.

The wooden tripod holding the telescope Winston turned out on lathes at Central Junior High School. He will attend Grade 10 at Victoria High School in the fall.

The mount was made out of old plumbing, and the tubing for the telescope is sheet metal. Winston said he first became interested in astronomy in about Grade 3 when the solar system came under study. His fascination grew when he attended a lecture of Victoria Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, about 2 1/2 years ago.

His mother, Mrs. Muriel Jackson, said, however, "Astronomers are born, not made." Winston has been reading about astronomy and peering at the sky for years, she said.

250,000 Line Path Of Seafair Parade

SEATTLE (AP)—Thousands jammed the streets of downtown Seattle Saturday to watch the Seafair Grand Parade wind its way through the heart of the city.

While the sun shone brightly on the throng, estimated by police at 250,000, the 176-unit parade proceeded through the city to the High School Memorial Stadium where judges picked the winning floats.

Spectators began lining the streets as early as 7:30 a.m. Camp stools, cushions and even a living-room dayenport were used to ease aching feet. And one youngster did a thriving business as he pulled a wagonload of apple boxes through the crowd.

Comedian Bob Hope acted as honorary grand marshal of the parade, first of nine this city will see during Seafair festivities.

Parade winners included: Community Division: Sweepstakes, Cashmere, 1st Arlington; 2nd, Pacific National Exhibition, Vancouver, B.C.

Musical Unit: Sweepstakes, Cranbrook High School Girls Bugle Band, Cranbrook, B.C.; Band Division A, North Kitsap High School; B, Ephrata Summer Band; Drum and Bugle Corps, junior division, Pasco American Legion.

U.S. to Stay in Lebanon Until Mid-September?

By KINGSBURY SMITH

LONDON (UPI)—The United States government has indicated to Britain that it hopes to keep American military forces in Lebanon until mid-September at least.

This was learned on reliable diplomatic authority yesterday as concern over the Middle East situation continued to occupy British officialdom.

LITTLE HOPE

The British see little hope of pulling their own forces out of Jordan for months if the throne of young King Hussein is to be saved.

Not much optimism prevails in London that any United Nations summit meeting will produce a quick solution for the threat to Jordan, even if agreement can be reached on a neutralization of Lebanon.

"In fact, it is felt in British government circles that the Middle East will probably remain the world's greatest danger spot for an indefinite period of time."

IMPROBABLE

It is considered highly improbable that Russia wants stability in that area, and therefore little real hope is held that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will agree at a summit meeting to any sound, permanent peace plan for the Middle East.

The possibility is not excluded that he might pay lip service to some form of United Nations assurance of security for Lebanon and Jordan in order to force the withdrawal of

Firemen Mop Up After Careless Smoker

Holding the canvas hose off the hot ashes, volunteers and firemen mop up the last of yesterday's fire at Sidney which burned some two acres of brush. Efforts of the men prevented the fire

* catching fire and hemlock among the brush and prevented the fire reaching a farm nearby. (Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Flipped Cigaret Ignites Two-Acre Sidney Fire

A smoker's carelessness is blamed for a flash brush fire which destroyed two acres of land yesterday at Sidney.

Fanned by a stiff breeze, the fire spread out from a point along the roadside, coming to within some 200 yards of Leslie W. Marshall's turkey farm and house.

At one point, before the blaze was brought under control, Mrs.

Marshall began moving furnishings outdoors.

Firemen from Sidney and Central Saanich rushed to the fire in tinder-dry brush and fought it with pumper trucks.

A 5,000-gallon reservoir on Mr. Marshall's property, between the fire and the house, played a large part in halting the flames that a flipped cigarette started.

A number of neighbors and nearby residents helped firemen fight the fire. Langford forest rangers' suppression truck guarded the fire site overnight together with 12 volunteers.

NEIGHBORS PRAISED

Paying tribute to his neighbors after the fire was under control, Mr. Marshall said, "They are certainly a wonderful bunch of people. All the neighbors around here worked."

Last word on the fire came from one of the Sidney men who helped control it.

"It makes you wonder why people don't use the ashtrays in their cars," he said. "What do they think the ashtrays are for?"

Churchill Looks for 'Leak'

Did Paper Get Secret Report?

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF party, with Liberal backing, yesterday failed in a bid to initiate a Commons debate on what it called "discrepancies" between Finance Minister Fleming's budget forecasts and a "partially disclosed" confidential economic report received by the government last spring.

A motion by CCF House leader Hazen Argue to adjourn scheduled discussion of veterans affairs department expenditures to debate the issue was ruled out of order by Speaker Roland Michener, who said the House will have a chance to debate the matter Monday on a government supply motion.

Mr. Argue said the Commons and the people of Canada have been misled "by the forecasts of the minister of finance." Published extracts from the report showed there were "great discrepancies" between the "secret" report and Mr. Fleming's June 17 budget forecasts.

Mr. Argue's move was the first Commons reaction to a Toronto newspaper story stating the economic report is "considerably more pessimistic" than was Mr. Fleming's budget speech.

Meanwhile, Trade Minister Churchill indicated outside the House that the government is looking into the basis of the newspaper story. He said he has asked his officials how many copies were printed of the economic report—a confidential one prepared by the trade department—and who received them.

Both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Fleming declined to answer questions to state whether the published extracts are in fact from the report.

McPhillips Stands Firm Against CCF

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF Commons members, still angered over a Progressive Conservative member's statement Friday that the CCF once advocated machine-gunning the rich, tried unsuccessfully again yesterday to obtain a retraction.

A. DeB. McPhillips of Victoria Friday said that not many years ago the CCF "advocated that all the rich should be shot and everybody with a buck should be machine-gunned."

H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) said that Mr. McPhillips should at least apologize for his statement.

"It's completely untrue," Mr. Herridge said mildly. "I've never murdered anybody."

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

• Lop Ears

Q. Can anything be done about "lop ears"?

A. Yes, Surgeons actually "pin the ears back" by removing a small piece of cartilage from behind the ear and sewing up the cut with tiny stitches. Much emotional damage can be done to a youngster by being teased about a facial deformity. A doctor recently told about the marked improvement in his son's disposition after the boy's lop ears were corrected. He was almost unmanageable before the operation. After his ears were fixed he became a normal, well-liked and well-balanced child.

Q. Is glaucoma a form of eye cancer?

A. No. Glaucoma (glok'ma), or "hardening" of the eyeball, is due to increased pressure within the eye. The eye is filled with fluid. Normally, just enough fluid seeps in and flows out to keep inner-eye pressure at just the right level. In glaucoma the outward flow of fluid is partially blocked. Doctors use certain drugs to slow down the inflow and improve the outflow. In some cases they may operate on the eye to bypass the blocked outlet. Glaucoma causes more blindness than any other eye condition. It occurs most often in people past middle age. If there is any suspicion of glaucoma the eye doctor will use special tests. Because glaucoma can cause blindness, it's always best for people who "just need glasses" to be checked by an oculist (ophthalmologist). Oculists are medical doctors who have had special training in eye disorders so that they may treat such eye diseases as glaucoma as well as prescribe glasses.

MATERIAL IN MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of glaucoma requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Gets Chance to Explain

Security Risk 'Heard'

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is still trying to work out a method of giving government employees suspected on security grounds "a form of hearing" so that they may know and have a chance to reply to allegations against them. Justice Minister Fulton said yesterday.

Mr. Fulton, replying to J. W. Pickersgill during Commons study of RCMP estimates, said a Toronto hearing involving a CBC employee represented a start in that direction.

Mr. Pickersgill, recalling Mr. Fulton's interest in the problem while in opposition, asked working out a procedure since taking office.

As a former minister of citizenship, Mr. Pickersgill said, he himself had been faced with the "disagreeable" problem.

Mr. Pickersgill said he is much impressed by the attitude shown by Mr. Fulton, who "has tried to meet every situation squarely, and has set out to find some procedure."

"The real problem in the case of security is suspicion, the suspicion that a man may not be reliable—because of his habits or his associations—and that he might wittingly or unwittingly betray the country. If a man actually had committed a crime the problem would be simple."

Over-Taxed Already

URBAN motorists are not likely to feel kindly disposed towards a recommendation made in Victoria last week to the commission studying factors in highway financing. It was suggested, perhaps with more courage than logic, that owners of private cars should pay a higher percentage of taxes towards the cost of constructing and maintaining the highways. The proposal was made on behalf of a public carrier.

Because of the practice of including the gasoline tax in the price per gallon, the private motorist's contribution to the highways—not the city streets but the provincial highways—is apt to be overlooked. With the exception of customers of the government liquor stores, motorists are probably the most heavily-burdened group of taxpayers in the country. Only one of many levies, the tax on gasoline based on the retail price comes to about 30 per cent—all of which in the case of British Columbia goes to the provincial government for highway purposes. Computed on a year's purchases of gasoline that amounts to a fair-sized contribution.

But it isn't all. That is just for the provincial highways. For the building and upkeep of municipal streets and roads the motorist has to pay again through property taxes or rent. On top of that are all the nickels he puts into the parking meters, which are in effect another traffic tax.

If there is anything wrong with the system of taxing motorists it is not in the amount but in the application of the revenue. The Province takes the entire product of the tax on gasoline, returning to the municipalities only a paltry grant towards the cost of keeping in repair those sections of provincial highways passing through their territory. Of the total revenue from the gasoline tax probably 80 per cent at least comes from urban motorists; and the urban motorist on average does 80 or 90 per cent of his driving on urban streets, for which he is taxed by the municipality.

If motorists living in cities and organized suburbs deserve anything it is relief, not further punishment.

$200 for a $25 Job

RECENTLY in Vancouver a woman over 80 years of age paid a bill of more than $200 to an itinerant racketeer for repairs to her roof and chimney when all that was needed was some minor attention. Subsequent checking by an expert showed that the value of the work done was around $25, and that $50 would have been more than an adequate charge. By then, of course, as is almost invariably the case in matters of this sort, the man had vanished beyond trace and the unfortunate old lady was added to the list of victims of a mean but profitable brand of swindling.

Warnings against the roof and chimney fraud have been so often displayed, and so prominently, that one would have thought all householders would be on guard against fly-by-night operators who solicit business at the doorstep on the pretext of having observed from the street that repairs are urgently needed. Apparently not, however, for every year adds to the number of those gyped. Mostly these poor people are easy marks for rogues: elderly couples, widows and women living alone.

The risk of being defrauded when dealing with men of this type, described in police phraseology as "of no fixed abode" or business address, is mentioned again now because this is the season when householders begin to think about the coming winter and the possible need to have roofs, chimneys and eavestroughs repaired. The prudent course always is to consult an established contractor, who will still be in town and not a hundred miles away if later there should be occasion to dispute the amount of the bill or the quality of the work done.

'Come As You Are'

AS was only to be expected, the protocol people have had a high old time during the visit of Princess Margaret to Canada, but they didn't win every round; and they don't always in England, either. A delightful little story is told of the routing of stuffiness on the occasion of the Queen's recent visit to a town in Lincolnshire.

His Worship the Mayor decreed that members of the borough council should wear dark suits when presented to Her Majesty at a civic reception. Councillor Fred Broddle was put out about this, because his best suit was old and "not particularly dark"; but the mayor was adamant: no dark suit, no place in the line. With the rugged individualism of the good people of Lincolnshire, Councillor Broddle declined to accept the mayor's no for an answer. He took pen in hand and wrote to the Queen about it. The cost of a new suit, he explained to Her Majesty, was "a serious matter to him."

Back from Buckingham Palace came this heart-warming reply: "Her Majesty never wishes people to be put to extra expense on account of her visit." So by Royal permission Councillor Fred Broddle was there in his Sunday best; and it is nice to think that there was a feeling almost of companionship between Sovereign and councillor as the Queen's eyes lit upon him in his old, not particularly dark suit.

Island Editors Say

More Thirst Than Brains

Why is it that some people, who have more than brains, cannot resist breaking empty bottles?

The moment the last drop has gurgled out of the bottle, the drinker must add to the pleasure of the day by giving himself the thrill of hearing glass break.

The beach is a favorite spot for this. Usually there are nice solid rocks against which the glass can break and scatter. A child or two may get cut but this is a small enough price to pay for the pleasure of breaking a bottle.

The highway is another good spot. Here again, the cost of the thrill is small. Perhaps a few cut tires. Possibly an accident, even a fatal accident, but nothing to worry about.

It is hard to legislate against bottle-breaking. The police can't see it all. And those who do it are too stupid, it seems, to realize that it might cause someone some pain.

Inadequate Highway

A direct, fairly, high-speed, smooth, straight, narrow and hopelessly inadequate highway links the capital city with the Peninsula airport. The highway was inadequate the day it was constructed. Today, half a decade later, it is outdated and threatens to be swamped in the event of any one of a number of projected new developments.

The Patricia Bay Highway, is not adequate for its purpose. Within a few years it will be ridiculously inadequate. The present highway should be designated as the single lane of a one-way system. A second and new route should then be built to run approximately parallel and to serve as the corresponding route.

Understanding Needed

Juvenile delinquency is a national problem and the sooner we quit talking about it and do a little more to actively solve the problem the better it will be for all—and especially for the delinquents and potential delinquents themselves.

Let us not lay all of the blame on the teenagers. The ones we have been in contact with in the past few years are a pretty fine group, and we venture to add, as good as any of any other generation.

The trouble with parents who do have they are either too ashamed to seek help and guidance with their problem or that they just don't care. Being a parent is a full-time job and one that requires the utmost patience and understanding, probably more understanding than a good many of us have seen fit to employ.

Efficient Firefighters

North Cowichan's works crew under Perry Ross, supervisor, deserve high commendation for the speedy manner in which they dealt with a fire outbreak on Mt. Prevost during the week.

The story of the successful battle was of a set-piece engagement, a heavy concentration of equipment in the hands of men with a knowledge of their task.

Four times the blazing area was ringed by bulldozer trails and four times the flames leapfrogged across the fireguard. Finally the strenuous efforts of the crew paid off, the outbreak was brought under control and subdued.

We Should Remember

Either wilfully or by carelessness, man has been responsible for over 80 per cent of all forest fires which, on the average burn over a million and a half acres of land in Canada each year and result in losses measured in millions of dollars. We should do well to remember that not fire but the hand that sets the fire is the enemy of the forest.

During the last 10 years there have been more than 14,700 forest fires in British Columbia. Of this total 9,700 (65 per cent) were of the man-caused variety. Of this 9,700 a total of 4,500 were caused by campers and smokers. The amount of timber killed by forest fires each year would produce enough lumber to build 25,000 average homes.

For the Oldest

Ladysmith already has more organizations for its size than most communities, but we feel one more could be added with benefit to the whole community. The membership already exists. The work involved would not be great and we feel sure much of the cost would be covered by donations. The organization we have in mind is one which would conduct regular get-togethers for the older people of the community and provide transportation for those who require it.

"The Group agree, then, that we wish to place on record that we deplore the fact that the landing of American troops in Lebanon has pushed poor Mr. Douglas-Home and his princess right off the front page."

Thinking Aloud

Letter from London

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

PEOPLE in the mass, worked up to the point of hysteria, can be either terrifying or comic, depending on the nature of the circumstances.

If they are at a lynching, say, the worst is uppermost; if they are watching, say, "My Fur Lady," a totality of good humor exists.

It is the plurality that is evident. So it is with nations.

They are composed of people yet the difference between an individual and his country is most marked. Thus it is a person may say he likes Americans, or Englishmen or Frenchmen, but he doesn't like their countries.

Measuring the country's behaviour in the plurality as an entity.

A nation comes to have a separate make it up.

A peculiar situation it is, stemming from a collective aura that afflicts a nation as such.

War exemplifies this more clearly than anything. The soldier in the front line is the nation in miniature; he is not himself for he is draped in nationalism and he proceeds to his task impersonally. He may shiver in his shoes but he will shoot at the enemy with perfect aplomb.

So will his opposite number across the way.

But when the shooting is over, happening they have both emerged safely, the opposite numbers can meet amiably as individuals. They might even play chess or poker together, depending on their special social habits.

This is the paradox of humankind.

No Westerner fuming over the dilemma Egypt has created hears illwill towards an individual Egyptian, unless perhaps Nasser. But in this case Nasser is Egypt incarnate and it is the nation as distinct from the Egyptians which rouses our dislike.

The same must certainly be said of Russia. Suspicion of the U.S.S.R. is automatic amongst many of us, and probably just as well, yet here again it is an abstract proposition.

Abstract, of course, only in relation to this present academic discussion.

When a visiting Russian group of any kind comes to visit us there is no trace of animosity towards them, rather the reverse. But they come as individuals, or so we regard them, and that makes all the difference.

As private persons, apart from the nation they represent, basically they must be very much like ourselves.

Indeed I read in the paper the other day that a crack Soviet soccer player was sent to prison for misbehaving himself. He was young, he had succumbed to the adulation accorded him as a great sporting hero, and he thought he could make his own rules.

That sounds very much like some of our own athletic greats, albeit our side probably would be more lenient. It would be thought we couldn't afford to lose his playing skill, a very convenient excuse.

The on-again-off-again summit meeting is another good example of how nations behave as distinct from individuals. Individually a few letters by air mail would have arranged the meeting without fuss or much delay. Nations, unfortunately, especially in this wrongful heyday of "open" diplomacy, are hardened by their collective arteries.

Or, as is not infrequently the case, by leaders who epitomize nations at the expense of their people. Sometimes it seems a pity

THE simple fact that Prince Charles will no longer be known as Duke of Cornwall this father the Duke of Edinburgh is also the Earl of Merioneth but as Prince of Wales marks not only the revival of a gracious tribute to the principality but one of the most useful tourist boosts that Wales can have. It also promises a big event—his investiture in Caernarvon Castle probably eight or nine years hence.

Welshmen, of course, are very pleased. Prince Charles is news. As he grows older he will become more important still and every time he is mentioned it will be as Prince of Wales, and there follows from that the inevitable American query "Where is this Wales?" and the determination to spend good dollars (to very good advantage) in going there.

Wales itself, as always, has started to argue. Everyone seems to agree on one point—that it is a good thing that he has been created Prince of Wales. After that the fun starts. The Welsh nationalists insist that he should be well versed in the Welsh language and taught to be a proficient Welsh speaker—which only goes to show how difficult life as royalty can become.

The Lord Mayor of Cardiff has protested against the announcement that the investiture should be in Caernarvon Castle. He has pointed out that since the Duke of Windsor was invested there Cardiff has become the capital of Wales, officially, and that therefore the investiture should be held in Cardiff. This plea in turn emphasizes the eternal argument between North and South Wales. As scholars have pointed out, the north Walian and south Walian do not even speak the same language. In fact they do, but they have different words and pronounce them differently. The north is predominantly agricultural—the south mainly industrial.

There are however very real problems associated with creating titles

A Prince Again, Look You

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

ferent words and pronounce them differently. The north is predominantly agricultural—the south mainly industrial.

The Prince of Wales has always been identified with Caernarvon ever since the first English trick created the later Edward II Prince of Wales. Edward was born in Caernarvon Castle on April 25, 1284, and according to legend was presented to the Welsh chieftains in fulfillment of an English promise that their prince should be native born and one who could not speak a word of English, which is one of the reasons why some Welshmen have hard feelings towards the English.

Wales has been without a prince for 22 years—since the accession of Edward VIII—and more than once there were whispers that the Duke of Windsor was going to be the last. The idea has grown up that the eldest son of the monarch should be a prince of one of the dominions and so emphasize the changed status of the British Commonwealth. More recently it has been suggested that Princess Margaret should be Princess of Canada—but as the original idea came from Australia the position could be embarrassing. In Victorian days there would have been enough royal children to go round; today the position is different, but there is still a possibility that Princesses Margaret, Anne and Alexandra may start a new fashion in nomenclature.

There is also the question of royal residences in the dominions—a problem already mentioned in Wales. The Royal Family has three official residences in England and one in Scotland. It has now been suggested that when of age the Prince of Wales should at least live in Wales and no doubt the idea will have to be seriously considered. In all except literal title Princess Margaret is regarded as Princess of Scotland.

There are however very real problems associated with creating titles for princesses. What happens when they marry? Just before the war it was suggested that the present Queen should be created Princess of Wales but that was abandoned largely because of the possibility of a son being born to King George VI, and by tradition it is the eldest son of a monarch who is created Prince of Wales. It is not inherited but confirmed by tradition. The actual investiture was virtually the invention of Lloyd George as a gracious tribute to the Welsh people, and the Duke of Windsor was the first to be actually invested for more than two centuries.

The Duke of Windsor was also blessed with a Welsh name—something overlooked in the case of Charles who is additionally Philip, Arthur and George but not David (the anglicized Dafydd) or Gruffydd or Llywelyn. And he could have been Rhodri after the first independent Prince of Wales, Rhodri the Great in 844. Before that there were princes of north and south Wales, and afterwards such sterling characters as Owain Glendwr.

For the present, however, Wales is proud to have a prince again.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

BY far the happiest man at our summer resort is a semi-retired businessman who takes all of July and August at his cottage, and has no box at the post office.

He refuses to accept mail. Our summer postmaster has rigged up a set of wooden boxes on the wall with our names on them, into which the mail each day is sorted. This happy man I speak of has no box. He has instructed the postmaster to return all mail addressed to him marked "Not known."

Traitorous though it be of me to say it, he takes no newspaper either, and thinks a radio amid our rocks and bushes is a monstrosity.

Last week a telegram came for him, and the postmaster personally took the trouble to deliver it in his own boat. The happy man derided it.

"Maybe it was somebody had died," I protested to him, when I heard of it.

"Could be," he admitted. "I'll find out about it when I get home around Labor Day."

When I asked him what he did about the monumental pile of mail awaiting him when he goes home, he quoted Napoleon to me: "If you don't answer your mail for two or three days, it is astonishing how little of it needs to be answered."

Not many of us have this man's nerve. Nor are many of us as entirely carefree.

With the Classics

For while the tired waves vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch in gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.

And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light;
In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly;
But westward, look, the land is bright!

Happiness to Others

May I add to the glowing tribute which Mrs. Beaven has been paid in the press to the late Mrs. H. R. Beaven by mentioning yet other spheres of interest of this remarkable and generous citizen of Victoria.

She was an early friend of the late Dr. Alice Ravenhill, and of Major Bullock Webster and Mr. Anthony Walsh, and associated herself actively with their pioneering efforts to further the welfare of our Indians of this province and to preserve their native culture. Of more recent years, she followed with avidity the efforts of the Dominion and provincial governments to raise the social and economic living standards of native citizens of B.C.

Her abounding love of beauty in nature led her to take an active part in the preservation of wild flowers and plants, which she grew in such profusion in her garden and shared with all comers.

It was life itself, for Mrs. Beaven, to give happiness to others and, until a few days before her death in her 91st year, she continued her practice of taking patients from the Veterans' Hospital for drives in her car, and paying visits to the Sunshine Camps at Sooke.

Her triumphant conquest of disability, age, and pain will ever remain as a beacon in the lives of those who knew and loved her.

Indian Customs

I have received an anonymous letter taking me to task regarding my recent contribution in connection with Indian customs. I dislike letters that are not signed and I invite this particular individual to call on me when I will be glad to discuss the whole question with him.

In his letter, bearing a Victoria postal mark, he mentions that I am in error in stating that the older Indians resided mainly on Saturna, Mayne and Kuper Islands; then he suggests that I have forgotten some of the other well-known areas nearby, such as Valdes, Galiano and Thetis. I stand corrected as to these locations.

Then he mentioned Yellow Point and the vicinity of Ladysmith. I had not overlooked, nor did I consider it necessary to deal with, Indian locations outside the Gulf Islands, having in mind in particular the remarks of Mr. Andy Paul regarding Portland Island.

He states that he "cannot go along with me" in suggesting that the older Indians were superstitious. Anyone, who has made a study of the coast Indians would know that for a fact they were.

I did not deal with the Cowichan Tribe, nor the large reservations in Saanich and elsewhere on Vancouver Island.

Being a British Columbian of the third generation, my interest in the coast Indians is entirely sympathetic, and I admire many of their characteristics. Furthermore, I do not think enough has been done to help their advancement.

Sport Paves Way

According to one local radio announcer, America and Russia are now part of the British Commonwealth. These countries apparently took part in the recent British Empire Games in Moscow and to behold swept the boards with the opposition because, alas, no mention was made of a showing by any other country.

It is a nice idea, mind you, but hardly feasible. However, it does seem that sport affords the only real opportunity for the East and West to get together in comparative harmony.

Iraq Demands Increase

U.S. Sees Danger in Too Much Oil

By DAVID BARNETT,
North American Newspaper Alliance

The new government of Iraq, which has been warring the West with soft words for the past two weeks, has started putting on the pressure.

Premier Abdul Krim El-Kassem has notified United States oil interests that petroleum production in Iraq must be substantially increased and that a new agreement establishing a higher production rate must be negotiated.

At the same time, the premier has informed the United States that Iraq will obtain arms from Communist Czechoslovakia if the U.S. refuses to continue shipments of military supplies at the rate established under the mutual security program.

The Iraqi notice to the oil companies indicated that the military group now in control would accept a production increase of 50 per cent with no change in the arrangements for an even split of the income between Iraq and the companies.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton recently held a meeting in Washington of representatives of 16 U.S. oil companies to plan for any possible disruption of oil shipments because of the Middle East crisis. The focus at that time was on temporary stoppages of shipments similar to those during the Suez crisis in 1956.

Oil experts at the interior department point out that the opposite approach, a substantial increase in Iraqi production, could be in the long run just as dangerous. They say that it would have an immediate depressing effect on the oil industry in Texas, where production already has been cut back to nine days a month.

Iraq currently receives about $18,000,000 a month in income from oil production, which averages about 640,000 barrels a day, according to a report in the hands of the house judiciary committee.

The main outlet for Iraqi oil is Western Europe. A recent United Nations report indicates that consumption in Western Europe is increasing at the rate of 10 per cent a year.

Thus a sudden spurt of 50 per cent in Iraqi oil production would produce international problems of pricing.

production and conservation for all oil producers.

U.S. officials indicate privately that the main danger in the Iraqi oil move is that it will prompt similar requests from such other Middle East oil producers as Saudi Arabia, Iran, Kuwait, Qatar and Bahrain.

The Iraqi oil field has an estimated reserve of 25,000,000 barrels. It is exploited by the Iraq Petroleum Company Ltd. in which British, U.S., French and Dutch petroleum companies have interests.

According to the House committee report, Kuwait, at the head of the Persian Gulf, has the largest oil income in the area, $25,000,000 a month, and U.S. companies have 50 per cent of the concession. In Saudi Arabia, which gets $24,000,000 a month, Aramco, an American-owned company, has virtually all the oil concessions.

Harry S. Truman Suggests:

Invite Nasser to Washington

By HARRY S. TRUMAN
The situation in the Middle East is one of extreme danger, and the president having taken a first and necessary step, the United States and the free nations of the West must be alert, determined and exceedingly careful not to leave any room for misunderstanding as to what we are prepared to do at all stages.

Our objective is to prevent a third world war. Our aim is to ensure the peace of the world, and we have devoted our wealth and energies to that end at great sacrifice.

The President has made a momentous decision and proclaimed a policy which every citizen of the United States should support.

For some time I have been worried about the steadily worsening prospects for peace and for the arrangements and organizations we have set up to help keep the peace of the world. I have been frankly concerned that the same fate that overtook the League of Nations might also befall the United Nations. This would be a great tragedy.

I would have preferred, as I am sure the President would, to call first upon the United Nations for action on the plea of President Chamoun of

HARRY TRUMAN

Lebanon for help. But under the circumstances, there was no time to deal with the emergency.

In the recent past, I have been openly critical of some of the misjudgments and the drift in the conduct of our international policies. But this is no time to dwell on the past. The President, it is now evident, has adopted a policy of positive action.

Positive action, of course, does involve certain risks, but we have learned from experience that there are far greater risks in failure to act or in hesitation to act when we have to deal with the Soviet Union.

I therefore believe that the President—considering all the circumstances—had no alternative but to respond to the call of the President of Lebanon to dispatch troops to that troubled country.

Having taken this action in Lebanon, I think it is necessary that we make it clear to the Soviet government that the free world means business in its determination to stop Communist intrigue and subversion in the Mediterranean. Time and again we have seen that when the Kremlin is convinced that we mean business and are determined to back it up with action, it will back down.

And I think this may be a good time for a new approach in Egypt. Under proper conditions, it might prove useful to a peaceful resolution of the Middle Eastern crisis to invite President Nasser to Washington for a frank and friendly discussion.

I wish he could have been invited much earlier—during the beginning of the Middle Eastern crisis. One of the things President Nasser does not seem to understand is that the hope for improvement of the lot of his people lies in his working with the West. On the other hand, if he keeps on flirting with the Russians and encourages them in their sinister campaign of indirect aggression, he stands a good chance of turning his country into a Mediterranean Hungary or Poland.

Arab nationalism can have no future in the plans of Russian imperialism. Nor is there any hope for a better future for the Arabs if, on the pretense of freedom, so-called republics are set up by brutal military coups, such as occurred in Iraq.

I think the U.S. would have a better opportunity to learn from President Nasser at first hand exactly what his aims are. At the same time, the

Colonist's Swimmers Near Home Stretch

By MARGIE NAYSMITH
Colonist Swim Instructor

We are heading into the final stages of our instruction now and, as one small boy aptly put it, "I guess there's nothing left to learn."

He seemed quite happy with his accomplishments. However, I hastened to assure him there were a few more things left for us to learn.

STILL WELCOME
We were all so pleased to see and meet so many parents during the week. We have had large numbers of parents at all three pools this week, and we still have two days of "visitors' week" left at Elk Lake, since our swim weeks end on Wednesday.

Next week we will be getting our swimmers started on the necessary distance—swimming to get their certificate—something of a review and a brush-up before the test weeks arrive.

TESTS SOON
Next week is our last week of instruction, and then come our two weeks of testing.

I am known to one group of eight-year-old boys as "Big Chief Nickel-Lender."

As boys all over the world will do, the lads in this group are forever losing their nickels for bus fare home. I won't lend them money to replace spending money they may have lost, but I make sure they have nickels so they can get home. Then each young borrower's name is written in a register, and he must repay the loan.

One little girl assured me I would have a star in my crown when I got to Heaven. Her mother told her so, because her patience was tried with four or 2,000.

One little lady of about eight in the Salt Spring Island class brought me the news that they had a new baby at her house, and would I like to put the new-comer's name on my list so she wouldn't be missed out when it came time for her swimming lessons.

DON'T KNOW NAME
"I don't know her name yet, but next week I'll be able to tell you," the little miss said.

I wonder if I will be around to teach her. Nobody knows, but these are the things that make this work all so worthwhile.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Saturday charged six major United States drug companies with fixing the prices of wonder drugs at arbitrary, artificial, non-competitive and rigid levels.

The action is one of the most important anti-monopoly complaints ever drafted by the Federal Trade Commission.

The outcome of the case could affect the medical bills of millions of Americans who, according to one estimate cited by the commission, spent $70,000,000 on miracle drugs in 1957.

Those accused of conspiracy to monopolize the wonder drug industry are:

Charles Pfizer and Company, American Cyanamid Company, Bristol-Myers Company, and Ciba Laboratories, Inc., and the Upjohn Company.

Grudge Costly
David M. Nunn, 19, Wains Road, Sidney, was fined a total of $133 in Sidney police court yesterday on one charge of theft and two other charges that arose from a grudge.

He was fined $25 for theft under $50. For wilful damage under $50 he was fined $25 and $5 costs. For using the mails for an indecent purpose he was fined $25 and $3 costs.

Police said Nunn had a grudge against a person and left a note containing foul words in the person's mailbox. That accounted for the use of the mails charge. His wilful damage was plastering the mailbox with paint.

While police were questioning Nunn at his home about these matters, they found a plastic sign, saying "Oxygen Therapy." It had been stolen from Rest Haven Hospital, where Nunn was a patient recently.

Tourist's Parcel Found, Turned In
A parcel containing mostly toys, bought earlier in the day from the Hudson's Bay Company by a United States tourist, was turned in Friday night to the store's lost and found department. The parcel was picked up on Pandora Avenue.

The Car Corner
By J. T. JONES
It did an old police reporter's heart good to hear the Mounties telling their version of the 85-mile-and-hour trip up the Fraser Valley with Princess Margaret aboard.

You know those little touches like, "We weren't doing 85. The people who clocked us must have been going that fast to catch up." I wish I had a dollar for every time that chestnut has been sincerely set before a magistrate.

The courts, in fact, must have quite a few dollars for every time it's been told.

And how about that "under these conditions 60 miles per hour was considered a safe speed." Or, under slightly different conditions, "But officer, 60 isn't too fast for a road like this." Also very sincerely, of course.

And the RCMP statement continues: "The cavalcade was behind schedule and it was felt that it should be moved as quickly as safety would permit. In order to avoid having crowds ahead wait longer than necessary."

I can hear the culprit now: "Officer, I admit I was hitting it up a bit, but I'm late now for an important appointment with check one; my doctor; the mayors (the attorney general); all three."

The RCMP's tender consideration for the crowds who might have to wait for the Princess was nice to hear. The object of the game here seemed to be to prevent anyone seeing her at all. At least the police seemed pretty all-fired smug about sneaking her out of the Empire a couple of times.

There is, of course, the possibility that everyone concerned is telling the truth, the whole truth and so forth. I asked our reporter who was in the cavalcade about this, and he bent to his pencil and paper and reported later as follows:

"I have worked out that on the official estimate of the speed, and the speed reporter's had to travel, we passed the Princess after the first 150 yards and beat her to Chilli-wack by 15 minutes."

Mind you, I have a lot of sympathy for the RCMP in this case, and even more for Princess Margaret. I don't believe she was in mortal danger at any time, and I'll bet that little rip along the open road was the first excitement she'd had since she left home.

And up until that outburst of flash bulbs the other day under Niagara Falls, I'll bet it was the last, too.

Scalded Youngster Improving
Eighteen-month-old Stephen Paul Schroyen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dalbert Schroyen, 3041 Earl Grey, was in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after knocking a pot of boiling coffee on himself Friday.

The child had pulled up a nylon pail to the edge of a kitchen counter where the coffee pot was standing, climbed on the bottom of the pail and pushed the pot over.

Mrs. Schroyen thanked Saanich police for rushing her son to hospital. "They were simply marvelous. They got us down so fast, if the baby has no scars, it is thanks to them."

Four Employees Of Resort Killed
SHOSHONE, Idaho (AP)—A car went out of control near here yesterday and overturned, killing four young men reported to be summer employees at the Sun Valley resort, 75 miles north of here.

They are: Donald Duane Higbee, 21, Buhi, Ida; James Frederick Mueschulat, 18, Fremont, Neb.; Thomas James Hicks, 19, Omaha, Neb. and Mark Nelson, about 18, also of Fremont.

Span Wreckage Salvaged Slated
VANCOUVER (CP)—The wreckage of the collapsed Second Narrows bridge was released to the contractors Friday by the royal commission investigating its June 17 plunge into Burrard Inlet. Eighteen construction workers were killed.

Salvage operations, held up six weeks by order of the commission, headed by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the British Columbia supreme court, are expected to begin this week.

Scottish Offer War History

Within about two weeks, the magnificent story of the Canadian Scottish Regiment's heroic record in two wars will be available in book form. Actually, it covers the period 1920 to 1955 in detail; but there are references to its progenitors of the 16th Canadian Scottish who won so enviable a reputation for themselves in the 1914-18 collision of great powers in Europe.

The book is by Reg Roy himself, a veteran of the Second World War, who served with the Cape Breton Highlanders. He has recently been appointed an instructor in history at the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads. Previously he was with the provincial archives.

DE LUXE ISSUE
A special feature about this book, "Ready for the Fray," is the de luxe issue. It is possible for families who wish to honor one of their members who served with the regiment, to order one of these beautifully leather-bound copies with the name or names of those to which it may be dedicated engraved in gold. Such copies cost $25.

LT-Col. R. D. Travis, 185 Barkley Road, Victoria, is accepting orders on behalf of the regiment's trustees for this special edition.

2,000 PRINTED
The ordinary books, running to a printing of 2,000, will cost $3.75, plus postage.

Naturally the regiment is anxious to get as many advance orders as possible from members of the regiment, former personnel, families and admirers—of whom there are many.

In a foreword to the volume, Gen. H. D. G. Cressy has written: "I have known the Canadian Scottish Regiment from its birth... There is no doubt the regiment did have a 'struggle for existence' in its earlier years. But it is equally certain that the result of this early and difficult experience was the quick development of an extremely strong regimental spirit. The continued vitality of that spirit is clearly revealed in this inspiring history of the regiment..."

"There are many pages and

... magnificent story

paragaphs of this volume which demand to be read over again—and thought about at length."

Big F. N. Cabell, who commanded the regiment in some of its fiercest engagements, observes, "Those who have served in or supported the Canadian Scottish Regiment will appreciate that the book is being published as a non-profit venture in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice... It would be greatly appreciated if you would order now."

Desert Luxury If Water's On

HASSI MESSAOU, Algeria (AP)—You're better off with an electric razor than a shaving brush in the Sahara these days. But Bernard Soudais, manager of a hotel built in the middle of the desert, vows this will change—as soon as the hotel has its own well and provided electric plugs in every room.

Ferocious enough to scare away an oriental devil, this "good" demon is a lion guarding the Yuan Tung Temple, a Buddhist shrine operated by nuns in the hills of suburban Taipei, Formosa. Menacing a visitor, the sculpture was created by an artisan who relied heavily on imagination, since lions existed only by hearsay in the China of old. ## Major Turley Wins Vancouver Feature VANCOUVER—Major Turley, an impressive winner his last time out, captured yesterday's $3,000 handicap for three-year-olds at Lansdowne Park.

Owned by Victoria's Don Carley, Major Turley scored a brilliant victory in the $3,500 B.C. Derby for three-year-olds last weekend, and followed up his success with a fine win in yesterday's mile and 70-yard feature.

New Hunting Changes Listed

OTTAWA (CP)—A country-wide ban on the use of any type of boat to drive birds within range of waiting hunters was announced Friday by the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Apart from minor changes in regulations affecting hunting in the individual provinces, the boat ban was the principle change from last year in the 1958 migratory bird regulations. As a Prairie drought has reduced the number of ducks in bag and possession limits on ducks in Saskatchewan.

Highlights of the changes in the West:

Manitoba

A special Manitoba duck hunting season in the farming areas opens at noon Sept. 5 and closes at noon Sept. 19. The preserve for persons living within a 10-mile area of the Hudson Bay coast is discontinued this year. Everywhere south of the 53rd parallel except the Delta waterfowl control area is open for ducks, geese, rails and coots from noon Sept. 19 to Nov. 29. In the Delta area the season is from noon Sept. 26 to Nov. 29. Between the 53rd and 55th parallels the season is Sept. 11 to Nov. 22, while north of the 55th parallel it is from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1.

Wilson's snipe is open from noon Sept. 1 to Sept. 30 north of the 55th parallel; noon Sept. 11 to Oct. 11 between the 53rd and 55th parallels, and Sept. 19 to Oct. 18 south of the 53rd. Apart from the Delta waterfowl control area, where it is noon Sept. 26 to Oct. 18.

Saskatchewan

In Saskatchewan, where drought reduced breeding stocks for ducks, bag limits were reduced to 12 this year, from 15 a day last year, and possession limits to 36 this year, from 45 last year. No geese or Wilson's snipe may be shot on Ear, Leag, Grill, Snipe, Luck, Sigstock, Beaufield and Culbank Lakes. Shooting after 12 noon MST is prohibited in the areas bounded by Highways 7, 30, and 44, and by highways bounded by Highways 15, 20, 11 and 2.

Ducks and coots are open in the northern district from Sept. 1 to Nov. 29, and elsewhere from Sept. 6 to Dec. 13, except in the eight restricted lakes, where ducks and coots close Sept. 26.

Except for the restricted areas, geese and Wilson's snipe are open in the northern district from Sept. 1 and from Sept. 27 in the south. The goose season closes Nov. 29 in the north and Dec. 13 in the south. But Wilson's snipe closes Oct. 4 in the north and Nov. 1 in the south.

Alberta

Duck and goose hunting opens Sept. 1 in the northern zone and Sept. 6 in the southern, closing Nov. 29 in the north and Dec. 13 in the south. The Wilson's snipe season in the north is Sept. 1 to Sept. 30, while in the south it is Sept. 6 to Oct. 11. There is no open season for Ross's goose and wood ducks.

Proper Use of Jacket Difference Between Life and Death

Wage Bid Suffers Setback

B.C. Longshoremen's attempts to gain a 6 1/2-cent-an-hour wage increase suffered a setback Friday when a committee of employers recommended an increase of only 10 cents an hour.

Some 1,200 men are affected including a number in Victoria, Chemainus and Port Alberni. The board was arbitrating a dispute between the longshoremen and the Shipping Federation of B.C. The board's recommendations are for the ship.

The latest recommendation came from the chairman F. W. Harrison, and C. G. Robinson, the company's representative. George Home, union representative, issued a minority report calling for an increase of 18 cents an hour.

MAN on VERGE of SPACE LEAP

At the same time, the 1990s saw a new generation of entrepreneurs emerge, many of whom were women. These women were often the first in their families to start businesses, and they often faced significant challenges in doing so. However, they were also more likely to have access to resources and support networks, which helped them to overcome these challenges and succeed. This new generation of entrepreneurs played a key role in the growth of the small business sector in the 1990s, and their success helped to create a more diverse and dynamic economy.

There Was Trouble With Claim Jumpers And One of Them Was Murdered

LIKE THE LAST of the leaves falling around Victoria that morning in late October, Robert Evans Sproule in cell 45 in the old Hillside Jail, was now face to face with the realization that in a matter of minutes, he too must fall. Through a trap door. Into oblivion.

Sproule was a sparsely built man, a about 40 years of age, and as he sat on his steel strap bunk, held to the masonry with two chains, he occasionally clenched his hands, one within the other. His eyes, deep sunk now with months of worry, showed a weariness, and the muscles at his mouth twitched. Occasionally a shudder shook his bowed shoulders.

Three years ago, when the old jail was still in use, and had a few more cells than it had now, Sproule was a claim jumper. He was a man of many talents. He was a good swimmer, a good runner, a good fighter, and a good liar. He was a man who could make a good story out of anything. He was a man who could make a good story out of anything.

"Keep your head down, or you'll be killed," gasped Belouf through his blood-soaked lips. "Get up, get up, get up!"

Belouf scrambled over the rocky hillside to a point where he could see the man who had been shot. He saw a man lying on the ground, his head near a large rock. He saw a man who had been shot.

For the first time in the history of the United States, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has been authorized to purchase U.S. Treasury securities in the open market. This authority was granted by the Federal Reserve Act of 1947, which was passed by the 80th Congress. The act was a response to the need for a more flexible monetary policy in the wake of the Great Depression. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York is the only one of the twelve regional banks that has been authorized to purchase U.S. Treasury securities in the open market. This authority was granted to the bank in 1947, and it has been renewed ever since. The bank's purchases of U.S. Treasury securities in the open market are a key part of its monetary policy. They are used to increase the money supply and to lower interest rates. The bank's purchases of U.S. Treasury securities in the open market are also used to support the government's financing needs. When you are ready to start, you will find that the eggs are easy to peel. The trick is to use a sharp knife to cut the egg open. Then, using a small spoon, you can remove the egg from the shell. The egg is then ready to be eaten. The egg is a good source of protein and is easy to digest. It is also a good source of vitamins and minerals. The egg is a healthy food that can be eaten in many ways. It can be boiled, fried, or scrambled. It can also be used in a variety of recipes. This was a question of the day, for Miss Martin, who is a well-known actress, had been seen in the streets of London, rather severely dressed, and it was thought that she was going to be the first woman to hold the post of chief of the police force.

On August 25, 1958, an equally important event took place. The book will make it clear that the Soviet Union was not interested in sending a chief astronaut and developing a new type of rocket ship, as the Americans are, and had only been looking at the possibility of sending a man into space. At the same time, the Soviet government, at the time, was not serious about sending a man into space, but was only looking at the possibility of sending a man into space. seven years after the end of the post, the boys' parents, Glen and Mary, were in a "worst of all worlds" situation, "stamps" as saying, "A Stamp Club" has been a "wonderful" and "constructive" experience, as well as offering a "new life" for many of the boys. The problem was, "some of them had no interest in stamps, and some of them had no money to buy stamps." The club was a "great success" and "a great help" to the boys.

WHEN SOME OF US were small boys, it was the big bass drummer in a tiger skin, twirling his sticks, whom we envied. But the man who draws the eyes of most of the small fry nowadays is the grave-faced young chap with the silver-topped mace who leads the Noddy Band.

His name is Gordon Richard Brown and he's the drum major, and his home is on Cedar Hill Road, Victoria. He is 25 years old.

A second, more general, question is whether the process of socialization is itself a function of the type of social structure that exists. The answer to this question is, of course, yes. The process of socialization is a function of the type of social structure that exists, and the type of social structure that exists is a function of the type of socialization that takes place. This is a circular relationship, and it is one that is central to the study of socialization.

There is a large literature on the effects of the size of the sample on the power of the test. Most of this literature has been devoted to the case of a single sample. In this paper, we consider the case of a two-sample test. We show that the power of the test is a function of the sample size, the effect size, and the significance level. We also show that the power of the test is a function of the sample size, the effect size, and the standard deviation of the error term. Finally, we show that the power of the test is a function of the sample size, the effect size, and the standard deviation of the error term.

Retreat to Beach! Hot Weather Cry

Scorching temperatures and blazing sunshine have made beaches the most popular spots on Vancouver Island this summer. All attendance records have been smashed as people pour out of the downtown areas every night after work and on weekends to take advantage of salt sea breezes.

Families, all along the line from infants to grandparents, have been stripping down to the barest of essentials to enjoy the sun and expose more of themselves to the fresh air.

Wilema Inn, at Cherry Point, has been growing steadily through the years and the community boasts quite a population of its own, summer and winter, although many people from Duncan and Cowichan district still retreat there in hot weather for an afternoon at the beach.

Wilema Inn, another favorite for many years, recently changed hands. The new owner, Mr. Wilfred Adlington has installed, among other things, a fresh-water swimming pool with wide patio and a cocktail lounge on the property which overlooks Cowichan Bay.

Day of Fun by the Sea

Mrs. Jack Gallagher of Maple Bay, left, and Mrs. Henry Horton of Ladang, right, with their children have fun on the beach at Maple Bay. The children, from left to right are Victor and David Horton, Ted Gallagher, Jessie Horton and Charles Gallagher.

New Fresh-Water Pool

Within a mile of the sea is the new fresh-water pool at Wilema Inn which has been a popular spot for guests this summer. Pictured are Mrs. F. Meyer, Ladang.

March, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. J. Brown and Mrs. A. L. Brown, all of Vancouver with their children in the pool.

They're Not Feeling the Heat

Nice Cool Spot on Patio

The patio beside the pool at Wilema Inn is where non swimmers gather in the morning, afternoon and evenings to watch the water activities. Here, Wilf Adlington, owner of the Inn is prepared to take little Barbara Webster for a stroll while her mother, Mrs. John Webster of Vancouver chats with Mrs. A. Bail, Victoria, Miss Margaret Andrew, Vancouver, and Miss Rae Smith, Victoria.

It's Rake-and-Roll Time

By M. V. CHESNUT, F.R.S.

In our climate, the best time of the year for sowing a new lawn is the first two weeks of September. This being the case, it is about time now to get started on the preparation of the seed bed, for the sooner this is done, the more weed seeds we can get to sprout and destroy before the lawn seed is put down.

If yours is a new home, chances are that the excavating has left you with nothing but dead, infertile subsoil around the house. This means that several loads of good topsoil will have to be purchased, but this doesn't mean that you can skip on the work of smoothing and levelling the subsoil base—it is an expensive business to use purchased soil for filling in hollows and irregularities.

Work over the subsoil as carefully as if it were to be the finished surface, raking and rolling again and again until it is perfectly flat and level, or sloping VERY gradually away from the house. The rolling is particularly important, for you don't want to leave any soft spots to sink later on, leaving a depression in which water will gather.

A good seed bed for a lawn should be made like a sandwich, in three layers. The bottom layer is the dead subsoil, the top layer will be your purchased topsoil, and the filling or intermediate layer should be a mixture of the two.

Spread about an inch of the good topsoil over the prepared site and chop or mix it into the top layer of subsoil. Rake and roll again, then go ahead and spread the bulk of the good topsoil, which should have a minimum depth of four inches.

This sandwich business is something only too often overlooked in the preparation of a lawn site. If you were to spread your topsoil directly over the dead and worthless subsoil, leaving them in two distinct layers, your grass roots would stay up near the surface, and the lawn would suffer terribly in spells of hot, dry weather.

I have seen such lawns where the grass could be rolled up like a carpet, with little or no penetration of the roots. The "filling" in the sandwich, a layer of mixed subsoil and topsoil—tapers the fertility gradually downward, and produces a lawn which is properly knitted to the soil.

When the final layer of topsoil is spread, raked, rolled and raked again, every effort should be made to germinate the weed seeds. Water the site as carefully and as frequently as if the expensive grass seed had already been sown, and don't forget the corners, which are seldom reached by circular-pattern lawn sprinklers.

Rake it over from time to time, as it starts to dry out, to bring more weed seeds to the surface. The weeds, as they appear, could be burnt off with a flame gun or blow torch, or killed by spraying with a strong fertilizer solution, as I described in this column recently.

It is best not to use a 2, 4-D weed-killer at this late date, as traces of it would remain in the soil at seeding time and would inhibit germination.

He's 63 and Blind

Thurber the Dauntless

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—James Thurber, one of the world's greatest living humorists, early this summer came to London to get some peace and quiet, but it's been one long interruption ever since.

Most of the distractions have been from the British press—television and radio. Also from Scandinavians, Germans, Netherlands, Greeks, and Latins.

Thurber's opinions have been assiduously solicited by press, TV and radio on every thing from the future of humor in the nuclear age to the sex life of frustrated bloodhounds.

"I'm getting tired of hearing about myself over here," he said. But he said it softly, and almost as if he felt he was to blame for getting tired of himself.

At 63 he is blind.

His words come out like a torrent of bright and lively fragments in a kaleidoscope. But, sit back and listen and there's a sense and even pattern in their profusion.

All Europe Courts Famous Humorist

Thurber is an easy talker, but like the kaleidoscope, he performs best if you jiggle him every few minutes.

"You used to be a newspaper man, Mr. Thurber."

"Yes, but don't call me Mr. Thurber. Call me Jim. I was working in New York once and the fellow who was running the paper he decided one day that all the leads of all stories should consist of one word. You know, one-word leads."

"Well, I wrote one one day that began 'dead.' That was the one-word lead and the second paragraph said, 'That was what the man was the police found in an arway last night.' Well, he didn't like that very much but he kept on with the one-word leads until one night when he said to me, 'Thurber, there's a real sexy play over at the such and such theatre. Go over there and write a story about it.'

"I came back and my one-word lead was a word that neither my paper nor your paper would publish. I wrote that word down and then my second paragraph said, 'That was the word flung across the footlights yesterday.'

"All right, all right!" said the boss. "Thurber and every body else are starting to kid the hell out of it, so we'll go back to leads that make sense."

"My blindness. When someone doesn't bring up the subject I usually do . . . when you're blind you naturally take a great interest in eyes. I want to write about the human eye, because it occurs to me that the human being knows less about it than any other part of the body.

"The eye is the one part of the body that is the same size at birth as in maturity. That's why all babies are beautiful. Old Rube Goldberg answered the question, what became of all the beautiful babies? 'Their heads got bigger,' he said. 'Their eyes don't.'

Now that he is blind and his wonderful drawings are gone, more and more of their wild magic is getting into his writing, a lot of which he is going to do in London.

"I can get a lot done here," he said. "I don't know what it is unless the race is different. See here, when you're being interviewed in New York, you sit on the end of your chair. Here, you lean back."

Witnesses Condemn Clergy

Organized Church Scored

NEW YORK (UPI)—More than 150,000 Jehovah's Witnesses Friday vocally approved a resolution blaming the world's troubles on organized Christianity.

The declarations assailed the Christian clergy as "the most reprehensible and delinquent class on earth."

It condemned Christian clergymen for "rejecting God's word" and turning to "worldly philosophy and unproved scientific theory" in an effort to solve mankind's woes.

Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders were rebuked sharply for encouraging their followers to support the League of Nations and the United Nations, which the resolution described as "human makeshifts for God's kingdom."

A chorus of "ayes" resounded through Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds—joint sites of the Witnesses' international assembly—at the conclusion of the reading of the resolution by Nathan H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, the official name of the group.

The eight-page resolution denounced Christian clergymen for "turning their backs on Jesus Christ" and for embracing a "false religion," which, it charged, was at the root of all the "crime, delinquency, hatred, strife, prejudice, Communism and mad confusion" in the world.

"All the blind peoples who follow these blind religious leaders will suffer execution with them at God's hands when the end of the old world comes at the battle of Armageddon," the resolution said.

The Witnesses believe that the world will end at the battle of Armageddon, the final conflict between good and evil, which they believe will occur in the near future. A total of 144,000 Witnesses then will ascend to Heaven, they believe, while the remainder will enjoy an everlasting life on earth.

They maintain further that the only way a person can attain salvation is by becoming a Witness.

Meanwhile, the Witnesses came under attack by the New York state convention of the American Legion, Edward J. McLaughlin, director of the New York State division of veterans' affairs, told 2,000 Legionnaires.

"It is outrageous that in this city an organization which refused to raise a hand to protect its country or to salute the flag is getting more publicity than an organization that has been sagged for many years and is dedicated to patriotic Americanism."

Mrs. James A. Cunningham, head of the Legion auxiliary, said:

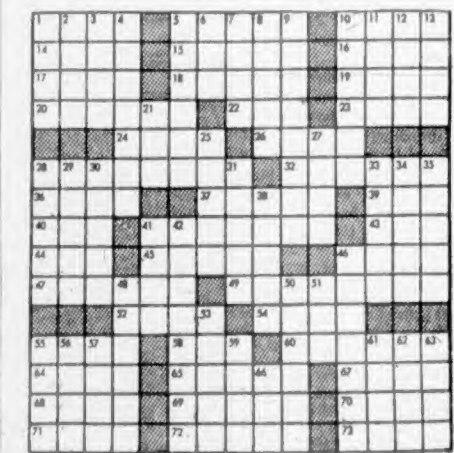

"The next time the Legion convenes here, let's make sure the Jehovah's Witnesses are holding their convention at least 3,000 miles away."

Hit-Run Car Kills Four-Year-Old Boy

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Randall Kelly, 4, died in North Vancouver General Hospital shortly after being struck Friday by a car near his grandparents' home.

Police said the driver of the car did not remain at the scene and he was being sought.

Princess Relaxes at Diefenbaker Hideaway

Made to measure for relaxation, Prime Minister Diefenbaker's summer hideaway on shores of lake in heart of Gatineau Hills is where Princess Margaret will take it easy this afternoon and tomorrow. With surrounding hills heavily patrolled by RCMP, the Princess will be able to swim and sunbathe in peace and privacy—a much-needed break after her gruelling whirlwind tour of Ontario. The royal merry-go-round starts again Tuesday when the royal tour of Ontario is resumed.

Beirut Firing Kills Marine

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—A U.S. sergeant was killed and two other soldiers narrowly escaped death or injury last night when they drove accidentally into a "no man's land" section of Beirut and met a blaze of gunfire.

A U.S. army spokesman disclosed the shooting incident as the United States beefed up its forces by landing 1,800 fresh troops in Lebanon to augment the 10,000-man marine force already there. A contingent of 3,000 more, with 72 tanks, was expected tomorrow.

The two survivors, Staff Sgt. Thomas H. Sharp, and Pfc. Thomas Mitchell, said it appeared to have been a rebel attack but could have been an unfortunate mistake by friendly forces.

The dead sergeant, whose name was withheld, was the first American military man to die as a direct result of the three-month old battle between rebel and government forces in Lebanon.

Four other U.S. servicemen have died in accidents. In other Middle East developments today:

—The United States and five other countries formally announced recognition of the new revolutionary government of Iraq.

—King Hussein of Jordan announced "suspension" of the Jordan-Iraqi Arab union which he and his cousin, King Faisal, created two months ago. The new Iraq regime already had renounced the union.

—U.S. ambassador to Lebanon Robert McClintock said the main U.S. military objective, "protecting and assuring Lebanese independence," had been achieved.

—Lebanese president-elect Fuad Chehab, general of the army, met with rebel leader Saeb Salam in a "neutral" hotel in Beirut. The meeting apparently was designed to resolve rebel demands that President Camille Chamoun resign and let Chehab take over immediately instead of waiting until Sept. 23.

Princess Shakes 900 Hands As Ottawa 'Brass' Files By

OTTAWA (CP)—Princess Margaret, radiant in a sky blue and white garden party dress, Saturday shook hands with more than 900 guests at a government reception here.

It took just 30 minutes for the long file of diplomats, parliamentarians, government officials, service officers, and their wives to pass through the receiving line.

After the hand-shaking, the princess' official party, including Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker, had a private reception of their own while the guests exchanged comment over their drinks.

Then Margaret, accompanied by Mr. Diefenbaker, walked once around the huge ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel where the reception was held so that the guests could get one more look.

Her dress was embroidered with white circles. It had a deep square neckline, bordered with white organza. She wore a hat

Slapstick Show Delays Escape

LONDON (UPI)—Anthony Wood, 27, and Ernest Taylor, 31, made a break from the Dartington police station. In front of the station, they dashed either side of a lamppost and right into a scene from old-fashioned slapstick comedy—they were handcuffed together.

They unwound themselves from the lamppost in time to elude pursuers, however.

Mrs. Diefenbaker wore a white linen dress, a small blue flowered hat with green petals and white shoes.

The Princess also was introduced to Mr. Justice C. H. Locke, representing Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, who is ill. Then Turkish Ambassador Ahmed Feroz Khan, his wife and Mayor and Mrs. George Nelms were presented.

Red carpet stretched from the top of the stairway to the street where Princess Margaret reviewed a guard of honor.

The crowd was relatively quiet with sparse cheering and hand-clapping mainly from children. The Princess was driven around Confederation Square and the National War Memorial on her way to Government House. When she turned in the direction of photographers and

"Good girl, good girl," 8,000 SPECTATORS

More than half an hour before the schedule estimated there were about 8,000 spectators lining Confederation Square.

Waiting Rewarded

Getting welcome kiss from her royal mistress is Princess Margaret's lady-in-waiting, Hon. Iris Peake. Charming incident, watched by thousands, occurred at Malton Airport, Ont., where the Princess landed some time after her entourage. Lady-in-waiting manages to receive kiss, curtsy, and remain upright all at the same time. No small feat.

Strict Rationing

Tofino Waterlift Supplying Village

TOFINO—The unusually long dry spell has put Tofino area residents on stringent water rationing.

Water is available in the village only between 7 and 10 a.m. and 4 and 7 p.m. Because of dwindling supplies, residents of high ground can only use water for part of that time.

Most creeks and wells are drying up and residents of outlying areas are coming into the village for water.

A waterlift was organized July 16, and since then six trucks a day have each carried 1,000 gallons of water 10 miles from the airport to the 50,000-gallon storage tank in the village.

A Goodyear of the provincial water rights branch made an on-the-spot survey of the village water supply system last week to see what can be done to prevent shortages in future.
